1. Purpose

Rectify Group Pty Ltd is committed to managing personal information openly, responsibly and securely. This Policy explains how Rectify collects, holds, uses and discloses personal information, how individuals may access or correct information, and how privacy concerns may be raised.

Rectify intends this Policy to meet the requirements of the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth), the Australian Privacy Principles and other applicable privacy, records and confidentiality obligations.

Rectify's privacy principle is simple: collect only what is reasonably needed, use it for legitimate business purposes, protect it proportionately, and dispose of it when it is no longer required.

2. Scope

This Policy applies to personal information handled by Rectify Group Pty Ltd and the business divisions operating under Rectify, Rectify Infrastructure and R-GEO where the Policy has been adopted.

It applies to information about customers, prospective customers, property owners and occupants, employees, applicants, contractors, suppliers, business partners, website users, professional advisers, visitors and other individuals who interact with Rectify.

This Policy applies to personal information in electronic and hard-copy form and to information held directly by Rectify or on its behalf by service providers.

3. Definitions

Term	Meaning
Personal information	Information or an opinion about an identified individual, or an individual who is reasonably identifiable, whether true or not and whether recorded in material form or not.
Sensitive information	A category of personal information that includes health information and information about racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious beliefs, sexual orientation, criminal record and certain professional or trade association memberships.
Data breach	Loss, unauthorised access, unauthorised disclosure, misuse, interference or unauthorised modification of personal information held by Rectify.
Eligible data breach	A data breach that meets the notification criteria under the

Term	Meaning
	Notifiable Data Breaches scheme.
Worker	A Director, employee, contractor, subcontractor, labour-hire worker, apprentice, trainee, volunteer or other person carrying out work for Rectify.
Privacy Officer	The person appointed by the Managing Director to oversee privacy governance, enquiries, complaints, data breach assessment and continual improvement.

4. Privacy governance

4.1 Accountability

The Managing Director is accountable for ensuring adequate resources and authority are provided for privacy management. The Privacy Officer coordinates day-to-day compliance, maintains the Privacy Data Map, manages privacy enquiries and complaints, and supports data breach response.

Managers must ensure that privacy requirements are integrated into the processes and systems they control. All Workers must protect personal information, use approved systems, follow access restrictions and report suspected privacy incidents immediately.

4.2 Privacy by design

Rectify will consider privacy when introducing or materially changing systems, forms, campaigns, websites, artificial intelligence tools, offshore support arrangements, monitoring technologies and processes involving personal information.

A privacy impact assessment may be required where a change involves sensitive information, large datasets, new surveillance or monitoring, overseas access, automated decision-making, or a material change to how personal information is used or disclosed.

5. Personal information Rectify may collect

Depending on the relationship and purpose, Rectify may collect and hold the following categories of information.

5.1 Identity and contact information

- Name, address, email address and telephone number.
- Date of birth or identity details where reasonably required for verification, licensing, employment or legal compliance.
- Contact preferences and communication records.

5.2 Customer, property and project information

- Property address, ownership or authority to act, property-use details and occupant contact information.
- Enquiry details, photographs, videos, plans, drawings, reports, levels, measurements, site observations and property history.
- Inspection, quotation, contract, scheduling, project-delivery, warranty, maintenance and complaint records.
- Information about plumbing, drainage, vegetation, access, services and other property conditions relevant to assessment or work.

5.3 Financial and transaction information

- Quotation, invoice, payment, refund and credit information.
- Bank details where required for payments or refunds.
- Records needed for fraud prevention, debt recovery, taxation, insurance or accounting.

Rectify does not intentionally retain full payment-card details where payment is processed through an approved payment provider.

5.4 Communications and digital information

- Emails, SMS messages, online chats, form submissions and records of telephone calls.
- Call recordings where notice or consent is provided and recording is permitted by law.
- Website usage information, device information, IP address, cookies, analytics, advertising identifiers and campaign interactions.

5.5 Employment, contractor and supplier information

- Employment history, qualifications, licences, competencies, references and right-to-work information.
- Payroll, superannuation, tax and banking information.
- Performance, training, attendance, injury, return-to-work, conduct and grievance records.
- Supplier and contractor due diligence, insurance, licence, ownership, sanctions, modern slavery and performance information.

5.6 Sensitive information

Rectify may collect sensitive information where reasonably necessary and permitted by law, including health and injury information for safety, emergency response, fitness for work, workplace adjustment, workers compensation and return-to-work purposes.

Rectify will seek consent where required and will apply additional access and handling controls to sensitive information.

6. How personal information is collected

Rectify generally collects personal information directly from the individual through telephone calls, emails, website forms, inspections, contracts, applications, surveys, meetings, project records, photographs, recordings and other interactions.

Rectify may also collect information from:

- a property owner, occupier, family member or authorised representative;
- a builder, engineer, geotechnical professional, strata manager, real estate professional, insurer, loss adjuster, council, principal contractor or referral partner;
- contractors, suppliers, referees, recruitment providers and professional advisers;
- publicly available sources and government or professional registers;
- approved technology, analytics, communications and marketing providers; and
- security systems, site-access records or CCTV where used and appropriately notified.

Where practicable, Rectify will collect personal information directly from the individual. If information is collected from another source, Rectify will take reasonable steps to ensure the collection is lawful and the individual is appropriately informed.

7. Why Rectify collects, uses and discloses information

Rectify may use and disclose personal information for purposes including:

- responding to enquiries and determining whether Rectify can assist;
- assessing structural, ground, remediation or property conditions;
- preparing proposals, quotations, contracts, designs, reports and project records;
- scheduling, delivering, supervising, verifying and warranting work;
- communicating with customers, owners, occupants, contractors and advisers;
- managing accounts, payments, refunds, insurance, taxation and debt recovery;
- handling feedback, complaints, nonconformances, incidents and claims;
- improving services, training, quality, safety, environmental and customer outcomes;
- recruitment, employment, workforce management and legal compliance;
- supplier and contractor evaluation, due diligence and performance management;
- preventing or investigating fraud, corruption, cyber incidents, misconduct or unlawful activity;
- protecting people, property, systems and legal rights;
- direct marketing where permitted and subject to opt-out rights; and
- complying with laws, regulators, courts, insurers, clients and contractual requirements.

Rectify will not use or disclose personal information for an unrelated purpose unless consent has been obtained or the use or disclosure is otherwise permitted or required by law.

8. Disclosure to third parties

Rectify may disclose personal information to parties reasonably involved in the relevant purpose, including:

- employees, Directors and authorised Workers;
- structural engineers, geologists, geotechnical advisers, plumbers, service locators, laboratories, surveyors, designers and other technical specialists;
- subcontractors, suppliers, manufacturers, logistics providers and equipment providers;
- principal contractors, property managers, insurers, loss adjusters, warranty providers and professional advisers;
- technology, cloud-storage, communications, CRM, accounting, payment, cyber-security, marketing and website providers;
- recruitment, payroll, superannuation, training, medical and injury-management providers;

- regulators, emergency services, law-enforcement bodies, courts and government agencies where authorised or required; and
- prospective purchasers, financiers or advisers in connection with a proposed corporate transaction, subject to appropriate confidentiality controls.

Rectify requires third parties handling personal information on its behalf to apply appropriate confidentiality, security and lawful-use controls proportionate to the information and service.

9. Overseas disclosure and access

Rectify may use service providers or support personnel located outside Australia. At the date of this Policy, likely overseas access or processing countries include the Philippines and the United States. Other countries may be involved where approved technology providers use regional or global hosting and support arrangements.

Before public issue, Rectify will confirm this section against the approved vendor register and Privacy Data Map. Where personal information is disclosed overseas, Rectify will take reasonable steps required by applicable privacy law and will assess contractual, security and access controls.

10. Website, cookies and digital marketing

Rectify's websites may use necessary cookies and similar technologies to operate forms and website functions, understand site performance, measure campaigns, improve content and support relevant advertising.

Users may control certain cookies through browser or consent settings. Disabling cookies may affect website functionality. Rectify will maintain a current cookie and tracking inventory and will provide any notices or choices required by law.

Rectify may send service communications and, where permitted, marketing communications. Individuals may opt out of marketing at any time by using the unsubscribe function or contacting Rectify. Rectify may still send non-marketing communications necessary to administer an enquiry, project, account, legal obligation or safety matter.

11. Photographs, video and project media

Rectify may take photographs or video for assessment, project records, quality verification, training, safety, claims and warranty purposes. These records may incidentally include individuals, vehicles, neighbouring property or personal items.

Rectify will take reasonable steps to minimise unnecessary personal information in project media. Identifiable photographs, testimonials or recordings used for public marketing will be subject to an appropriate consent or other lawful basis.

12. Call recording

Rectify may record calls for quality, training, evidence, safety or complaint-management purposes where permitted by law. Where a call is recorded, Rectify will provide appropriate notice and will restrict access to authorised personnel.

13. Automated decision-making and artificial intelligence

Rectify may use software and artificial intelligence tools to assist with administration, summarisation, lead routing, scheduling, analytics, document preparation and decision support.

Rectify does not currently intend to rely solely on automated processing to make a decision that could reasonably be expected to significantly affect an individual's rights or interests. Material customer, employment, contractor and safety decisions require appropriate human review. If this position changes, Rectify will update this Policy and its collection notices before the relevant use begins.

14. Data quality, access and correction

Rectify will take reasonable steps to ensure personal information it collects, uses and discloses is accurate, up to date, complete and relevant for the purpose.

An individual may request access to personal information Rectify holds about them or ask for it to be corrected. Requests should be made to the Privacy Officer and should provide enough information to verify identity and locate the relevant records.

Rectify will respond within a reasonable period and generally within 30 calendar days. Access may be refused or limited where permitted by law. If access or correction is refused, Rectify will explain the reason and available complaint options, unless prohibited from doing so.

15. Anonymity and pseudonyms

Where practicable and lawful, individuals may interact with Rectify anonymously or using a pseudonym. This may not be practicable where Rectify needs identity, ownership, location, site-access or payment information to provide a service, comply with law, protect safety or manage a contract.

16. Security of personal information

Rectify applies technical, physical and organisational controls that are reasonable in the circumstances, having regard to the nature, volume and sensitivity of the information, the systems used and the potential harm from misuse or loss.

Controls may include:

- role-based access and least-privilege principles;
- multi-factor authentication and approved password controls;
- secure cloud and device configuration;

- backups, logging, monitoring and endpoint protection;
- secure document storage and disposal;
- confidentiality obligations and workforce training;
- supplier and technology-provider due diligence;
- restricted access to sensitive employment, grievance, medical and whistleblower records; and
- incident reporting, containment and review under the Data Breach Response Procedure.

Workers must use approved systems and must not transfer personal information to unapproved personal devices, applications, email accounts, storage services or artificial intelligence tools.

17. Retention, destruction and de-identification

Rectify retains personal information only for as long as reasonably required for the purposes described in this Policy, legal and contractual obligations, warranty, insurance, taxation, employment, health and safety, dispute management and legitimate business records.

Retention periods will be defined in the Records Retention Schedule. When personal information is no longer required and no lawful retention obligation applies, Rectify will take reasonable steps to securely destroy it, de-identify it or place it beyond use where immediate destruction is not technically practicable.

18. Data breaches

Any suspected loss, unauthorised access, disclosure or misuse of personal information must be reported immediately under RG-PRO-PRV-001 Data Breach Response Procedure.

Rectify will contain and assess suspected breaches promptly. Where an eligible data breach has occurred, Rectify will notify affected individuals and the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner as soon as practicable, in accordance with the Notifiable Data Breaches scheme.

19. Privacy enquiries and complaints

Privacy enquiries, access requests, correction requests and complaints may be directed to:

Contact	Details
Privacy Officer	Rectify Group Pty Ltd
Email	privacy@rectify.com.au
Telephone	1800 18 20 20
Post	Privacy Officer, Rectify Group Pty Ltd, 28 Trade Park Drive, Tullamarine VIC 3043
General email fallback	hello@rectify.com.au

Rectify will acknowledge a privacy complaint promptly, investigate it fairly and aim to provide a written outcome within 30 calendar days. If additional time is required, Rectify will explain the reason and provide progress updates.

If an individual is not satisfied after giving Rectify a reasonable opportunity to respond, they may contact the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner or another applicable regulator or dispute-resolution body.

20. Responsibilities

Role	Responsibilities
Managing Director / Directors	Provide leadership, resources and oversight; approve this Policy; review serious privacy risks and eligible data breaches.
Privacy Officer	Maintain privacy governance, data map and notices; manage enquiries, complaints and breach assessments; coordinate training, review and improvement.
IT / Systems Lead	Maintain proportionate technical controls, logging, access management, backups and incident support; assess technology providers and changes.
People & Culture Lead	Protect employee, applicant, health, grievance and return-to-work information and restrict access appropriately.
Managers	Apply privacy requirements to systems, projects, marketing, recruitment, procurement and operational processes under their control.
All Workers	Collect and use information only for authorised purposes; protect access credentials; use approved systems; report incidents immediately.
Contractors and service providers	Comply with contractual privacy, confidentiality, security, incident-notification and data-return or destruction requirements.

21. Training, monitoring and review

Privacy awareness will be included in induction and role-specific training. Higher-risk roles, including IT, customer service, marketing, People & Culture, finance and management, will receive additional training appropriate to their responsibilities.

The Privacy Officer will monitor complaints, access requests, incidents, retention, supplier assurance and changes in law or technology. Material issues will be reported through the IMS, risk register, corrective-action process and management review.

This Policy will be reviewed at least annually and earlier following a significant data breach, system change, business acquisition, new offshore arrangement, material regulatory change or identified control weakness.
